Warsaw, March 22.

THE War continues between the Moscovites and the Turks without the least appearance of a Peace, and it's reported that the Grand Signior, who is extremely offended that the Czar of Moscovy refused to hear the Propositions which he sent a Chiaus to make in order to an accommodation, has Ordered the Grand Visier to command his Armies in Person this Summer, which he persuades himself will then be more successful then they have yet been in this War. Some days since arrived here an Envoy from Moscovy, whose business is only to inform this Court, That the Czar is sending Ambassadors hither to conclude the League, which has been so often mentioned, against the Turks, and that they are already on their Journey hither. At the same time we have an account from the Frontiers, That a Turkish Chiaus was coming hither; his arrival is impatiently expected, we not being able to imagine what his Errand can be. Prince Radzeville, Ambassador from this Crown to the Pope was, according to the last Letters from him, at Venice, where he was permitted to perform his Quarantine in one of the Lazaretto's.

Stockholm, April 3. The King of Sweden is at present at Konghsor, and will continue there till he return towards Schonon, to Consummate his Marriage at Helmstadt. In his way thither he intends to visit some Sea-Ports and Havens, which are commodious for the receiving of Men of War. After his Marriage his Majesty will return hither, and in the mean time has assured this City that they shall not be burthened with any greater Garison then his Regiment of Life-Guards. The Reports that have been spread abroad in Foreign Parts, as if there were disturbances in this Kingdom, are wholly without ground, and raised by some malicious people who envie our present quiet.

Copenhagen, April 9. The Swedish Ambassador, and the Commissioners appointed by our King, have frequent Conferences concerning the evacuation of Wisnar, and are gone so far that it is believed that matter will be perfected, and the said place delivered up to the Swedes before the Queen of Sweden parts from hence.

Prague, April 3. The number of the Boors who are got together in a Body increases daily, they being counted to be already above 14000, to whom many of the Emperors Officers who were lately Disbanded, are joyned. Five Imperial Regiments are ordered to March to quell them. Yesterday in the Afternoon the Emperor parted from hence to Heylingenberg, and returns on Saturday. In the morning a Council was held, where the matter of the Memorial, lately presented by Mr. Skelton, Envoy Extraordinary from the King of England, was considered of. Our fears of the Plague breaking out here are now quite ceased.

Strasburg, April 8. The French work hard at Huningen and Brisack, to repair the Damages the Fortifications of those places have lately suffered by the overflowing of the water. Our Letters from Metz of the 6 instant tell us, That several French Troops of Horse, and Companies of Foot arrive there dayly, and that they expected there in all, according as the French Officers themselves gave out, 20 Batallions, which were to march towards the Saar, and to encamp near a place called Star-Louis. On what design they are to be employed time must shew.

Franckfort, April 10. The Baron de Landsee, the Imperial Minister at Metz, was the other day shot in his house with a Musket, and very dangerously wounded; The person that did it is taken, but does not confess what induced him to that Villany. From Bohemia we have an account, That the Boors of several Lordships had taken the Field, and were formed into Companies, Commanded by Officers: That they had raised small Forts, in which they had put their Wives and Children to secure them; That they had got several Colours, on which were these words, Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, &c. and that the Emperor had sent several Troops to disperse them.

Cologne, April 12. The Count d'Archinto, the Spanish Envoy, went hence some days since to confer with the Duke of Juliers at Dufeldorp; all the discourse is, that that Prince is to be Governor of the Spanish Netherlands; from thence the said Count d'Archinto goes to Paderborne, where the Bishop of Munster resides, and afterwards to Zell to confer with the Princes of Lunenburg. The Spanish Officers continue to make Levies here, and will in a short time have completed the number they are to raise.

Brussels, April 12. The new pretensions which the French set up every day upon some place or other, makes this Court very uneasy, and the rather because we are not in a condition to hinder it. They have now lately possessed themselves of the Abbies of Fluery and St. Gerad, with above 40 Villages in the Province of Namur, which they say are dependencies on Charlemont. In Flanders and Haynault they make likewise pretensions on several places. It is reported that the French, instead of quitting Dinant, have reinforced that Garison with 400 men. It is all the discourse at Court, That the Prince of Newburg, who lately married the Emperor's Sister, and is now stiled Duke of Juliers, is to be Governor of these Countries.

Brussels, April 16. The proceedings of the French in the Country of Namur do very much allarm this Court, they having, within these three or four days, possessed themselves of the Prevostée of Polvaish, which
